From: The Committee of Catholics for Human Rights
261 Broadway
New York City

For Release: Monday, August 19

A nationwide survey to determine the extent to which religious and racial bigotry exists in the United States today, is now being conducted by The Voice, official organ of the Committee of Catholics for Human Rights and America, the Catholic review, it was revealed in the first anniversary edition of The Voice which appeared on the newsstands today.

The survey was undertaken in response to an article by Dr. Emmanuel Chapman, Professor of Philosophy at Fordham University. This article, which appeared originally in America, traced the history of various anti-Catholic groups that have existed in the United States from time to time, and pointed out that similiar groups have recently made a strong drive for followers in all parts of the country. The survey, it is hoped, will reveal the extent to which this drive has been successful.

The Committee of Catholics for Human Rights was founded one year ago by a number of prominent Catholic clerics and laymen; Sister Mary M. Madeleva, president of St. Mary's College, Notre Dame, Indiana, is chairman and Rev.
